

Class of 2013 - Ceo Address

There are many constants in this world that have withstood the tests of time and the rigors of the world... Constants that comfort us within the morality of our causes... Constants that provide us with the much needed assurances in the grimmest hours of our struggles... Constants that we lean on, when we falter in our strife... the love of our father and other, the loyalty to our country, the gratitude to our mentors, the virtue of our hard work, the rights and wrongs that do not bear compromise...
